CODE OF CONDUCT
PARTY GROUP POLICY STATEMENT

Foxhangers Canal Holidays are committed to maintaining a strict Code of Conduct and despite issuing all customers with a copy of our Terms and Conditions past experience shows that with the excitement of a celebratory party boaters can sometimes forget their manners!

We would politely remind boaters to take this opportunity to realise their obligations whilst on a special visit, failure to do so could be costly:

Rowdy Behaviour £250.00
Late Return £100.00 per hour
Cleaning £60.00 per hour
Evidence of Smoking £100.00
Stern and Skeg Damage £500.00

The following should therefore be adhered to at all times:

- On arrival to Foxhangers and during the handover and tuition process all party members are sober and refrain from any alcohol consumption
- When cruising the nominated Skipper and at least one crew member remains sober (normal drink driving alcohol limits do apply)
- All party members remain properly dressed
- No throwing of items between boats, into the canal or onto the towpath
- Be respectful of other boaters and canal users
- Ensure that your party are contactable by Foxhangers with mobile phone settings audible
- Whilst peaceful and non-tidal, canals can still be dangerous places if caution is not observed
- Remember; the canal community is a tight one – if something goes wrong and you don't tell us, we will find out about it!
- Most of all, our aim is that you and our boat return safely at the end of your trip!
